

I am a patient of Dr Julien Freitag at the Melbourne Stem Cell Centre.

I have suffered from arthritis in both knees for some years and have undergone numerous treatments before trying stem cell treatment as a last alternative to major knee surgery.

I have had the right knee injected about three months ago and have received considerable pain relief and improved mobility. On the basis of this improvement I have had injection in my left knee a few days ago.

I am confident that I will continue to improve.

I am deeply concerned that I can continue to receive this treatment and I trust that the trials can continue as approved by the Human Research Ethics committees of Monash and La Trobe Universities.
